

ABSTRACT

The object of the invention is a method for supporting dietary habits and a system and a computer program therefore. The invention enables to develop the healthy and reasonable nutrition habits within minimum limitations and inconveniences which are related to the change of the diet.